

Twistronic engineering of two-dimensional quantum states

Sergio PEZZINI - NEST, Istituto Nanoscienze-CNR and Scuola Normale Superiore

The twist angle between consecutive atomic layers represents a new powerful tuning knob for emerging electronic properties in two dimensions. We discuss our approach based on high-mobility field-effect devices built from CVD-grown graphene crystals, arranged into different artificial configurations.