

Jaimon Chonedan Johnson is a PhD student at Politecnico di Torino and currently works at CNR-IMM in Bologna. He holds a Master's degree in Physics from Vellore Institute of Technology, India, and has previously conducted research on the synthesis and characterization of 2D materials at the Australian National University as part of his Master's thesis. His current research focuses on developing high surface area graphene electrodes for the hydrogen evolution reaction (HER).