

Frederik Otto – CV

Frederik Otto is a PhD student in the group of Michael Lehmann at Technische Universität Berlin, focusing on the evaluation of dynamic diffraction in (Scanning-) Transmission Electron Microscopy at material interfaces, as well as corresponding simulations. Prior to this PhD position, Frederik completed his masters in 2020 at Justus-Liebig-University Gießen working on optical spectroscopy of 2D semiconductors and the influence of substrate materials on their excitonic properties.